

Be it known to all Teachers and Mentors:
There are people in our area who know first hand what it is like to live in a feudal society, who practice medieval arts and sciences as a hobby, and who are willing to visit your class in full medieval costume to share their unique experience with your students.

We are members of the Barony of Thescorre, local branch of the Society for Creative Anachronism, Inc. an international, non-profit, educational organization dedicated to studying and recreating the best of the Middle Ages and Renaissance.

Our members may demonstrate medieval combat, discuss the science of heraldry, teach a court dance, or answer your students' questions concerning daily life in the "days of yore". Our program varies and can be tailored to accomodate your special interests, the time and space available.

For further information, please contact: